Chapter 1 by Average Jo Ain't So Average

We stand on the edge of a cliff looking out at the sea. It seemed like my plight would never have ended without you next to me. The past few weeks have been filled with wonder and excitement after years of loneliness. How did you ever come to find me? I was lost and alone at rock bottom in a city of lies. My once known wonder was smothered by the city's grime as I wandered down the narrow streets, going to and from the meaningless doors in my miserable life. I longed to be free from the cage that was my past, my future, and my present. If you hadn't fallen from the Wall and onto my rooftop garden I would still be there, doing the same useless tasks every day. You freed me. You are the reason I'm here. You made my dreams into reality as we escaped the Walls and ran across the beautiful wilderness that they said was no longer.
